Gender Expression

The way a person presents & communicates gender within a social context.

Gender Identity

A person's internal & individual lived experience of what it means to be a woman, man, neither, or a mix of many genders.

Culture

Honours the fluid and diverse nature of gender, attraction, and the connection to community, spirituality, and traditional worldviews.

Attraction

A person's potential for emotional, intellectual, spiritual, intimate, romantic, and/or sexual interest in other people(s).

Sex Assigned at Birth

The classification of a person based on biological characteristics, such as chromosomes, hormones, external genitalia, and reproductive organs.

Gender Expression, Gender Identity, Culture, Attraction, and Sex Assigned at Birth are all separate ideas but work together to make us who we are. By better understanding the differences, we can better understand ourselves & others.
